

A commemorative plaque is mounted on a concrete dam structure. The plaque is rectangular and appears to be made of a dark metal or stone. It is secured with four corner fasteners. The text on the plaque is engraved in a serif font. Above the plaque, a large, dark, cylindrical pipe or culvert runs horizontally across the frame. To the left of the pipe, a small branch with green and yellowing leaves extends into the scene. The background shows the concrete surface of the dam and a glimpse of water to the right. A person's leg in blue jeans is visible on the far left edge of the frame.

POWELL TANNING CO.
HOOSIC RIVER DAM
CHARLES KOKORAS
BUILDER

1955

